1. INTRODUCTION

Gymnastics is a judgement sport. As a result, the rules for officiating must be transparent, fair and must maintain sport justice for all gymnasts. Judges are trained within their own federation gaining valuable experience before entering the international scene. The FIG is responsible to provide educational courses and a fair examination process to achieve the Brevet level of Certification.

Judges officiating at competition are expected to:

- maintain integrity of all decisions showing no preference or bias
- possess competence to apply the Code of Points and other rules of the FIG
- demonstrate moral and ethical behaviour
- show respect to others by being punctual and respecting all rules
- comply with the judges' oath and the FIG Code of Ethics.

2. GENERALITIES

General Judges' Rules apply to all FIG competitive disciplines. Specific rules for each discipline have been developed to clarify the differences. Judges' Rules are approved by the FIG Executive Committee.

The FIG International Judges' Brevet is valid during the judge's entire career, in accordance with 7.6 (7.4.2) of the Technical Regulations.

To be considered as active during an Olympic cycle, the judges have to attend an official FIG Judges' course at the beginning of or during each respective cycle.

The intercontinental and all international Judges' courses are carried out according to the protocols listed in this document. Specific operational directives have been established to ensure consistency amongst the disciplines and to ensure a high level of educational delivery.

The details of the procedure for the judges' draw, based on the principles mentioned in the Technical Regulations (art. 7.10), are outlined in the Specific Judges' Rules.

3. JUDGES' REGISTRATION, DATABASE AND INFORMATION

The FIG database and list of the international judges, as well as the list of International Judges' Courses are regularly updated by the FIG Office in consultation with the Technical Committees and are published on the FIG website.

Each FIG judge receives a brevet card. This card shows the name, the date of birth, the nationality of the judge, the year in which the brevet was issued and the discipline.

Competition registration details will be inserted once the electronic system is completed.

6. PROTOCOLS FOR JUDGES' COURSES

Protocol 1: Course Allocation, size and duration

Intercontinental Courses allocated by FIG

In each discipline only one (1) Intercontinental Course will be approved per cycle. The application and bid process, for federations to organize this course, is detailed in the Directives and will be distributed by FIG for federation bids.

Each course is scheduled for 4 days of instruction and 1 day for examination.

Exception: Trampoline 3 days of instruction and 1 day for examination.

Eligibility to attend is listed in the General Judges' Rules (see point 5).

The Intercontinental course size will vary for each discipline. Ideally there should not be more than 100 participants

International Courses allocated by FIG

International Courses will be organized on a geographic and language basis. A reasonable assessment of how many courses, in each language and geographic regions are required to be organized, will be made and approved by the Presidential Commission. Federations will then have an opportunity to bid for these multinational courses. Details, of the process to be followed for each discipline are in the Directives and will be published in advance of the bid process.

Each course is scheduled for 4 days of instruction and 1 day for examination.

Exception: Trampoline 3 days of instruction and 1 day for examination.

Within reason, there will not be a limit on the number of judges the federations are allowed. The host may request additional eligible judges to fill courses once registration is closed.

Course sizes will be structured as follows:

Course A (large)	61-100	participants (Hosts may fill courses once registration is closed)
Course B (small)	40-60	participants (Hosts may fill courses once registration is closed)
Course C (cat. 4)	25-40	participants (Host federations plus other federations)

Special consideration will be made for exceptional situations, especially for Acrobatic and Aerobic Gymnastics and some courses on developing continents.

Not all disciplines of FIG are at the same level of development. Some consideration and flexibility may be given to the allocation and organization of some courses in some disciplines.

Protocol 2: Course Curriculum

One (1) curriculum will prevail for all the Intercontinental and International Courses. Details of the preparation process are listed in the Directives. It is the responsibility of the FIG Technical Committees and any approved specialists to prepare the curriculum ensuring the following:

- Good teaching principles and methods of instruction
- An analytical approach using clear examples
- Consistent presentation style
- Stressing changes in rules from previous codes
- Full routines, elements and parts, once pre-judged, are explained fully as examples
- Limited narrative parts but using video or digital images

- The Intercontinental courses will include simultaneous translation according to the needs of the discipline
- The International courses will be available in English, Spanish, Russian for all disciplines and French as required by the disciplines

Protocol 3: Course Delivery

Intercontinental Courses

- Technical Committee Members in each discipline will deliver the course curriculum
- To deliver the curriculum the experts must demonstrate:
 - Good teaching and presentation skills
 - Experience in teaching methodology
 - Reasonable language skills and good command of one of the main languages
 - Adequate computer skills
- Two teams will be responsible for the course delivery.
- The Technical President is the leader of the Technical Team
- The Sport Manager for each discipline is a member of the Administrative Team
- The FIG Supervisor, to oversee the entire course, will be named by the Presidential Commission and will lead the Administrative Team
- Facility logistics and requirements will be determined by the size of the course and will be included in the directives for course organization.
- A consistent standard for the audio visual requirements must be respected as outlined in the directives for organization
- Candidate eligibility is determined in the General Judges' Rules.

International Courses

- The Technical Committee will name the Technical Experts who will constitute the Technical Teams for the courses.
- For courses in size Category A as listed above, the following experts are required:
3 experts - 2 TC members and 1 Cat. 1 or 2 judge; or 1 TC and two cat.1 or 2 judges.
They may be from the local federation
- For courses, in size Category B and C, as listed above, the following experts are required:
2 experts - 2 TC members or 1 TC & 1 cat.1 or 2 judges.

To deliver the curriculum the experts must demonstrate:

- Good teaching and presentation skills
- Experience in teaching methodology
- Reasonable language skills and good command of one of the main languages used
- Adequate computer skills
- The administrative team will be appointed by the FIG and will be assisted for administrative work and logistics by the LOC.
- No supervisor is appointed, so team work is necessary. The Administrative leader, responsible to oversee the examination process, will be named by FIG.
- Facility logistics and requirements will be determined by the size of the course and included in the directives for course organization.
- A consistent standard for the audio visual requirements must be respected as outlined in the directives for organization
- Candidate eligibility is determined in the General Judges' Rules (point 5)

Protocol 4: The Examination Components

The Technical Committee has the responsibility to set the examinations. For each discipline, multiple sets of examinations are prepared according to the needs of the discipline. While the same sets are not used each time, the same process to develop multiple sets is used.

One of the multiple sets will then be drawn also at the Intercontinental course to ensure similarity of procedure with the International courses.

The examination process is grouped into a section for Theory and one for Practical. This is valid for all courses. The following aspects for Theory and Practical Components have to be observed:

Theory Component

- The formulation of questions must be clear and allow for good translation
- All questions must have complete and accurate answers before being included in the test packages. The format should allow reasonable and quick correction
- Multiple choice questions should be carefully worded avoiding negative wording
- The correct answer must be included in the choice presented
- “which is more correct” is not appropriate for questions
- Using images of good quality and resolution is preferred to long narrative explanations. Diagrams for elements or symbols and any clear images recognized easily should prevail.
- Each discipline will determine the number and content of the theory component. A maximum of 100 is recommended
- To ensure reliability and confidentiality for the 100 question when multiple sets are required at least double the number must be developed for the selection pool
- The examination will be available in English, Spanish, Russian and French
- Multiple sets are distinctly identified only by the FIG office and only the sport manager has the code.
- Other details of the structuring of this component are fully described in the Directives for examinations.

Practical Component

- This component is primarily video driven and the video must be of very good resolution and quality to project well at the courses
- The start and end of each part needs to have noticeable and short lead or end
- The number of parts, video segments or routines, is prescribed in an evaluation chart for practical examinations
- The length of time for scoring full routines, is to be as follows:
 - Difficulty: 90 seconds
 - Artistic: 60 seconds
 - Execution: 60 seconds
- The allotted time for candidates to arrive at the score is to be imbedded into the running of the examination video using a count-down clock, so it remains consistent and accurate and well seen by the candidates
- Music must be clear and able to be enhanced by a speaker system
- Multiple sets of videos are distinctly identified only by the FIG office. Only the sport manager has the code
- An FIG video expert must be available to assist the TC's with the preparation
- The pool of material and videos, the process, and then the selection and the structuring of the practical component is fully described in the Directives

For the Practical Component, the answers or expert scores are also prepared by the Technical Committee in advance. The environment for this prejudging will be the same as the candidates will experience. A special directive for this prejudging procedure is outlined in the directives for expert scores. This process will be followed by all disciplines.

The final compilation of the practical test packages will be completed by the FIG office once all the steps of the process are completed.

All examinations are maintained at the FIG office. TC members or experts do not have copies.

Protocol 5: Examination Delivery

Examinations, which certify brevet levels in all courses, must be prepared and delivered with great responsibility and care following the protocols and directives as approved. Candidates must be given a good explanation of the process which will be followed and the conditions of the test have to be fair, transparent, and identical at each course and in all disciplines.

The maximum time limit and any other exact aspects of the examination procedure have to be clearly explained and understood by the candidates.

The examination set at each course is determined by a draw. On the first day of the course, a draw for the theory and practical examination sets is conducted. The Administrative Leader is responsible.

The examination delivery will be identical at all courses. There is only a distinction for the size of the course and the facilities. In some cases the candidates may have to be divided into 2 groups, according to directives provided, to ensure good viewing for all candidates and to maintain the level of confidentiality.

The Administrative Leader is responsible to ensure the confidential reproduction of any written material and all examination papers. Only the required number of copies may be made and their distribution is listed in detail in the directives. All examination questions and answer papers at courses must be returned. Candidates are not allowed to keep any examination papers. All completed examination forms must be returned to the FIG office for verification.

Candidates will be assigned seating by the Administrative Team.

Once the candidates are in the examination room, and a roll call is made, they are assigned a judge's number and these are only known to the Administrative Leader. The control of judges is made by their number at the entry point to the room for sessions later in the process.

To ensure judge anonymity, each examination cover page will have a special box for the judge number and when the examinations are collected, this box will be folded and stapled so the number is hidden. This applies to both the Theory and Practical Components.

The roles of the Administrative and Technical Teams are defined in the directives. These two teams invigilate the examination sessions and the Administrative leader is responsible to head up the team, using the correct procedures.

For all other additional organization aspects, the details are in the directives.

The directives will also outline the invigilation procedures with details of the expected behaviour of the candidates and the allocation of responsibility of the Administrative Team. This information will be presented to the candidates at the start of the examination session.

Protocol 6: Marking of examinations and results process

The process, for marking examinations and compiling the results, is identical for the Intercontinental and International Courses. At the Intercontinental courses, the Supervisor is responsible to lead the team. At international courses the Administrative Leader is responsible.

The process is done anonymously since all the judge numbers are hidden. The Administrative Team Leader will assign the tasks and set the procedure for the marking group to follow. Depending on the size of the course and the complexity of the marking system for the discipline, all team members may be asked to assist.

At the course and on site, only the judge numbers are used and absolutely no names are revealed or indicated in the results calculation.

Once all the papers are marked and double checked, totals are available. The Administrative and the Technical Leaders will assist with compilation of the final results by judge number. It will be the responsibility of the Administrative Leader to compile the results into the computer.

The raw scores from the various parts of the examination are entered into the program, and the scale or table, produces the final results and rank order. This is done by judges' number. Only once all entries are compiled, the final ranking can be determined.

The 5 criteria which must be met for Categories 1-4 according to the General Judges' Rules are:

- Excellent
- Very Good
- Good
- Pass
- Fail

Intercontinental Courses

The full and final results of the Intercontinental course (still by judge number) are reviewed by the TC and the final percentages for the 5 criteria above are determined. This is a Technical Committee decision and all TC members have to be part of the decision. The Technical Presidents signs off on the document. This scale is then published and applied for all other courses for the whole cycle.

International Courses

The final results from International courses are compiled into the computer by the Administrative Leader on site and the percentages are applied automatically for a full review of the results of the course. These are still reflected only by judge number not name. The results have to be reviewed in accordance with the evaluation scale fixed at the conclusion of the intercontinental course.

Protocol 7: Verification and Distribution of results

The Administrative Leader or Sport Manager is responsible to submit the full results to the FIG and ask for verification within one week. The results are once again verified by the office for accuracy.

Once verified, the results are sent to the federations.

No results are communicated at the end of any course.

7. GENERAL PRINCIPLES FOR THE EVALUATION OF PRACTICAL EXAMINATIONS

Details are provided in the Specific Rules.
